Ships and Boats

Some of the boats sailing across the ocean are part of royal armadas, and others are manned by infamous pirates. When travelling across the sea, roll on the table below to populate the waters with a range of exciting ships!

Seafaring vessels

1. A charred and splintered shipwreck bobs in the ocean.
2. A tatty sailing ship, The Black Cat, is manned by a wizard and his several duplicate helpers.
3. The Drowned Mare is an ethereal ship full of ghastly zombies and ghosts.
4. Pillars of smoke trail from a gnomish steam boat called The Pride of Tinkertook.
5. A damaged rowboat houses two desperate, sunburnt men.
6. A gilded galleon, Monarch's Glory, is owned by a local ruler and is heavily guarded.
7. Red Robin is an abandoned ship, home to a harpy nest.
8. A giant turtle cruises through the waves, it is steered by four laughing goblins.
9. The Kreaking Kraken is a large, purple brig manned by affluent spice merchants.
10. A barbed, black ship named Death's Hand is run by a growing crew of vampires.
11. Armour and bars cover The Iron Dragon, a prison galleon with a drab exterior.
12. The Clam is an enchanted ship that sails without a crew.
13. The infamous Neverend is a black and yellow galleon belonging to frightful pirates.
14. Nets and rope are flung from Whitebait, a sea-fishing boat.
15. The Dove is a speedy, white sailing ship. Used to ferry letters, packages and post.
16. A tourism agency runs Hippogriff Day Trips, a vessel full of sunbathing aristocrats.
17. Heart of Gold is occupied by a bardic university, shanties and music emanate from it.
18. The Celestial Griffon is a fine brig belonging to a church of clerics on a pilgrimage.
19. Seven proud galleons, belonging to a royal navy, are sailing in a V formation.
20. Mercury is an anchored ship home to a hermit community.

1d20